Highlight the sentence in the paragraph below that supports the idea that the author's purpose is to persuade her readers?

Protecting the coral reefs in both Belize and Australia has become an international concern. The delicate reefs are home to some of the most exquisite marine life in the world. Tropical fish, varying in size and color, rely upon the coral to survive. Yet, as more and more tourists visit these areas, the coral is at risk. Boats that get too close or careless swimmers and snorkelers continue to take their toll on the natural habitat. This is leading local governments to create restrictions that will protect the coral reefs. However, this is not enough. The international community must come together to provide resources to conserve these international treasures. If we do so, they will be enjoyed by generations to come.
